Swatch watch Tartanotto (SUOZ258C), designed by Paola Navone

The Swatch Tartanotto watch (SUOZ258C) is the second collaboration that the well-known Italian designer Paola Navone has designed in collaboration with Swatch. It is a very special watch whose design has been inspired by the typical Scottish squares, in blue and red on a white background, hence the name of this model. On the back of the strap of the watch Swatch Tartanotto (SUOZ258C) you will find a row of red fish on a blue background that bring a casual touch to this fantastic work of art worthy of any collector.

About Paola Navone:

She was born and spent her youth in Turin (Italy), studied architecture at the polytechnic school of the city and graduated in 1973, later moving to Milan and beginning to take her first steps as a designer. He has worked as a creative artist for numerous brands such as Swarovski, Triade, Abet Laminati, Casamilano, Alessi... In 1983 he was awarded the prestigious Osaka International Design Award.

Paola Navone has designed for Swatch, in addition to this model, the Swatch Cutotto (SUOZ259C) with an equally very characteristic design of this well-known Italian designer.

The Swatch Tartotto watch (SUOZ258C) uses the Scottish squares to create a work of art worthy of any collector
